About the Participants...

Tim Anderson - Mosaic – www.nemosaic.org
Anderson is Associate Professor of Journalism at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, where he is editor of Nebraska Mosaic, a news site for the city’s growing refugee community, funded by J-Lab. He worked for more than 30 years in newspapers in Nebraska, Missouri, Florida and New York. He spent nine years at New York Newsday, eventually becoming executive news editor, and another nine years at The New York Times, where he served as the news design editor.

Jon Beaupre - 10 Valley - http://10valley.com/
Beaupre is a Professor in the Communications Department at California State University, L.A., and founder of 10Valley.com, a website covering the San Gabriel Valley, funded by J-Lab. He is a radio producer, reporter and frequent contributor to local and internationally syndicated programming from his home in Los Angeles. He conducts workshops and seminars with the Associated Press Radio and Television Association.

Diane Carman – www.healthpolicysolutions.org
Carman is editor of Health Policy Solutions, a project of the Buechner Institute for Governance at the School of Public Affairs, University of Colorado Denver. She is also the school’s communications director. She began her career at the Wisconsin State Journal, has worked as a reporter and editor at The Oregon Journal and the Oregonian, and was a local news and opinion columnist at The Denver Post.

Andrew Chavez - The 109 - http://the109.org/
Chavez is the Director of Digital Media for the Schieffer School of Journalism, Texas Christian University. He is advisor for a community news website that covers Fort Worth’s 76109 Zip code. Previously, he was a reporter for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. He is also the associate director of the Texas Center for Community Journalism.

Cross is Director of the Institute for Rural Journalism and Community Issues and Assistant Professor, School of Journalism and Telecommunications, University of Kentucky. He spent more than 26 years as a reporter at The Courier-Journal, the last 15½ as its chief political writer.
Jessica Durkin - Block by Block - http://blockbyblock.us/tag/jessica-durkin/
Durkin is the Community Manager for Block by Block, a hyperlocal news publisher network supported by The Patterson Foundation’s New Media Journalism Initiative. Jessica is a 2010 New America Foundation Knight Media Policy fellow and a former print reporter. In 2009, she started InOtherNews.us, a blog tracking independent news startups.

Amy Eisman is director of writing programs for mass communication classes in SOC at American University. She teaches reporting, editing and writing for convergent media and created an online course called Media @ the Millennium. Prior to coming to AU, Eisman was an editor with Gannett for 17 years. She co-authored several unique online training modules for Gannett's 5,500 newsroom employees. She also co-authored a six-chapter module for the Knight Citizen News Network (KCNN.org), which focuses on tools for citizen journalists, including tips on crowdsourcing, partnering with traditional media and management.

Fisher is a senior instructor for the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, University of South Carolina, and founder of Hartsville Today, a local website funded by J-Lab. He spent nine years as a news editor for The Associated Press. He is co-author of Principles of Convergent Journalism.

Cheryl Gibbs - Miami Valley News Network - http://mvnn.org/
Gibbs is assistant director of the journalism program at Miami University, Oxford, OH. She coordinates the Miami-Whitewater Valley Public Media project, funded by J-Lab. She taught at Earlham College for 11 years and previously worked for 12 years as a reporter and editor in California, Indiana and Ohio. She co-authored the textbook Getting the Whole Story: Reporting and Writing the News.

Glenn is an Associate Professor with the CUNY Graduate School of Journalism. An award-winning journalist and digital media consultant, he has reported, edited, and managed newsrooms in Washington, D.C. and New York for nearly 30 years, most recently as senior producer for ABCNews.com.
Devin Harner
Hamer is an Assistant Professor of Journalism at John Jay College of Criminal Justice, earned his doctorate in English at the University of Delaware in 2006. He co-directs the Journalism Minor and writes about new media and Journalism education for PBS’s Mediashift.org.

Hester is the Director of NYCity News Service, a project of the CUNY Graduate School of Journalism that makes student stories about New York neighborhoods available to news organizations around the world. He was previously City Editor of the Daily News.

Joe Hirsch - Hunts Point Express - http://brie.hunter.cuny.edu/hpe/
Mott Haven Herald - http://motthavenherald.com/
Hirsch is the Community Editor of the Hunts Point Express, which covers two Bronx neighborhoods and is produced by Hunter College students, and of the Mott Haven Herald, produced by students at the CUNY Graduate School of Journalism, where he teaches.

David Johnson - American Observer - http://inews6.americanobserver.net/ Johnson is an Assistant Professor of Journalism at American University and editor of The American Observer, a student online magazine. Previously, he was chief technology officer of Scripps Media Center in Washington, D.C. He is a founding member of the Media Bloggers Association and a contributor to the Poynter Institute's E-Media Tidbits blog.

Junnarkar is an Associate Professor with The CUNY Graduate School of Journalism and founder of Family Life Behind Bars, funded by J-Lab. He is the former New York bureau chief of CNETNEWS.com. Junnarkar helped to create online editions of The New York Times when the paper went live on the Internet.
Josh Krist - Mission Loc@l - http://missionlocal.org/
Krist is a San Francisco-based travel writer and freelance journalist. He writes for Thinkshift and Lonely Planet and has worked for the Associated Press in Jerusalem and Paris. He is married to presenter Helene Goupil.

Rafael Lorente – Capital News Service - http://merrill.umd.edu/cns
Lorente is the Annapolis bureau chief of Capital News Service at the Philip Merrill College of Journalism, University of Maryland. He is a former reporter with the South Florida Sun-Sentinel and Miami Herald. He covered the 2000 and 2004 presidential elections, the attacks of Sept. 11, and U.S. foreign policy toward Latin America, particularly Cuba.

Kathryn Mangus – Broadside - http://broadsideonline.com/
Mangus is an instructor with the George Mason University Communications Department. She coordinates the media groups Broadside, WGMU, MCN, GMView, and VoxPop in addition to being the faculty advisor for Broadside.

Andrew Mendelson - Philadelphia Neighborhoods - http://sct.temple.edu/blogs/murl/ Mendelson is Chair of the Department of Journalism at Temple University’s School of Communication and Theater. The department’s students have launched several news startups. His research interest focuses on the role of photography, and the messages conveyed to society through a variety of media.

Glenn Mosley
Mosley is the director of broadcasting and senior lecturer at the University of Idaho. Glenn has been a news reporter for more than 20 years and spent two and a half years as a press secretary/legislative aid for the Massachusetts State Senate.
Sean Mussenden - Capital News Service - http://merrill.umd.edu/cns
Mussenden is director of the Merrill College's Capital News Service online bureau and a full-time lecturer of digital journalism at the University of Maryland. Previously, he was a multimedia Washington correspondent and Web producer/editor for Media General News Service.

Garry Pierre-Pierre is project leader for CUNY’s Center for Community and Ethnic Media, which supports and trains New York’s City’s community and ethnic press. He is editor and publisher of The Haitian Times, an English-language weekly serving New York’s 500,000-strong Haitian community. He shared a Pulitzer Prize as a New York Times staff writer for covering the 1993 World Trade Center bombing.

Jane V. Regan - http://www.janevregan.org/
Regan is a professor with the State University of Haiti in Port-au-Prince and the coordinator of the Laboratorie du Journalisme. She also contributes to the Haiti Grassroots Watch to produce watchdog media in Haitian Creole, French and English for worldwide distribution.

Roethel is the managing editor of the Peninsula Press, which covers Santa Clara and San Mateo counties with stories from students in Stanford University’s Graduate Program in Journalism. She is also the Stanford correspondent for the San Francisco Chronicle.

Indrani Sen - Voices of NY - http://voicesofny.org/
Sen is an adjunct faculty member of the CUNY Graduate School of Journalism and editor of VoicesofNY.org, the successor to a site created after the Sept. 11th attacks to ensure diverse voices were heard. It is now a CUNY project. She was a staff reporter at Newsday from 2001 to 2005.
Somani is an Assistant Professor of Journalism and Mass Communication at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, VA. She is award-winning producer and director of documentaries. Previously, she was a writer and producer for CNBC, NBC, and WJLA-TV.

Wakhisi is the managing editor of the Miami News Service. She is the former director of the Peace Sullivan/James Ansin High School Summer Journalism/New Media Workshop. Her professional background includes serving as a reporter and editor for several daily newspapers, including the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the Kansas City Star, and The Miami Herald.

Weil is USC Annenberg's director for international and strategic partnerships. She joined USC in 2007 as assistant dean for strategic initiatives. Previously, she served as senior program officer in the United States Institute for Peace grant and fellowship program in Washington, D.C., responsible for grant making in media, education and conflict management, especially in Pakistan and Afghanistan.

Zucker-Scharff is the Assistant Director for Marketing and Communication in the Office of Student Media at George Mason University, where he works with students, staff and faculty on various on- and off-campus initiatives.